

Presentation at Conference on Collaborative Scientific Research Opportunities Relative to the Gulf Oil Spill

Economics, Policy, and Decision Support Systems Track

November 1, 2010
New Orleans, LA

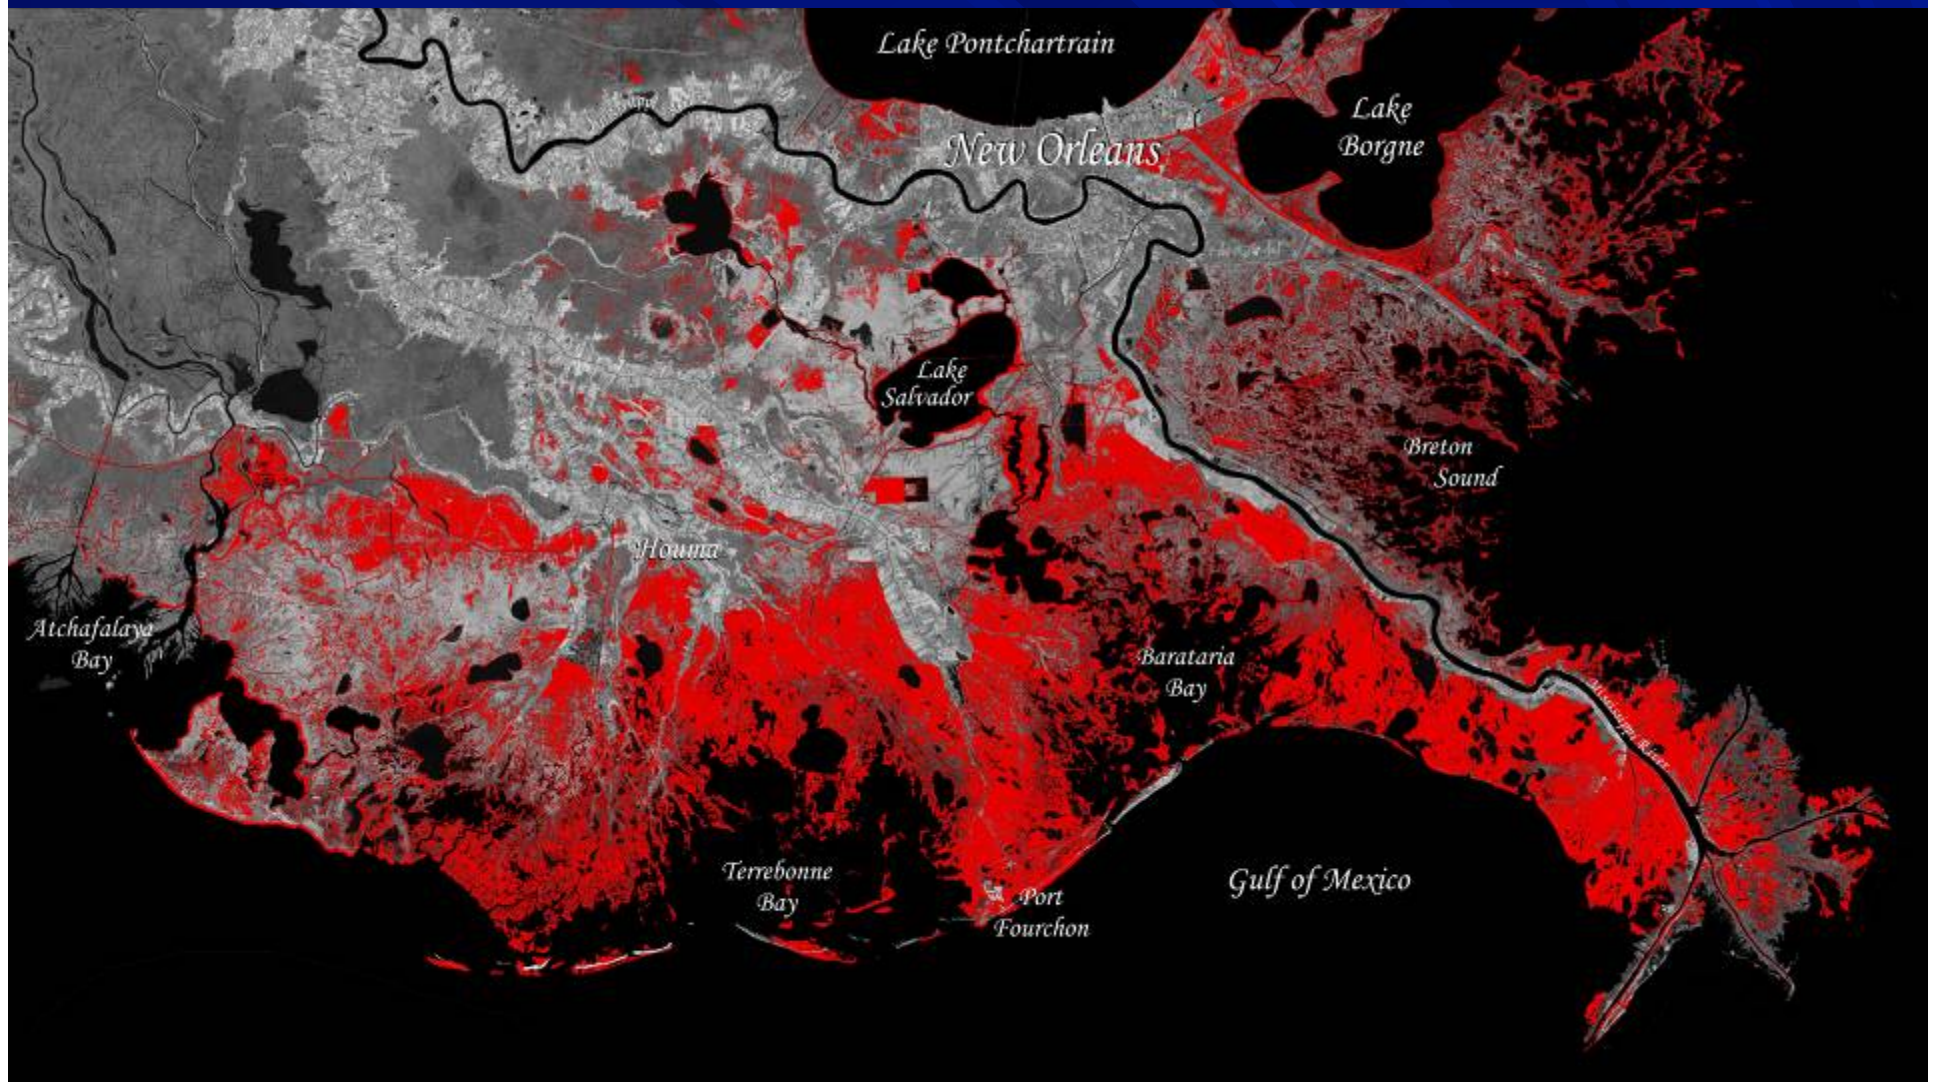

Robert A. Collins, Ph.D.
Associate Professor Of Urban Studies and Public Policy
Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences
Dillard University

water at the city gates predicted land loss 1932-2050

Priority Research Urban Planning and Public Policy in Relation to the Gulf Oil Spill

- Risk Assessment
- Disaster Mitigation Planning
- Disaster Recovery Planning

Dillard University Public Policy Center

- Environmental Science
- Environmental Justice
- Community Outreach
- Environmental Policy
- Urban Sustainability

Dillard University

Urban Studies Program

- Analysis and Production of Disaster Mitigation Plans
- Analysis and Production of Disaster Recovery Plans
- Planning to Redesign Cities to Live in Harmony with Water (The Dutch Model)
- Analysis of Urban Land Use Plans and Master Plans

Contact Information:

Robert A. Collins, Ph.D.

Associate Professor of Urban Studies and Public Policy

Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences

Dillard University

rcollins@dillard.edu

(504) 816-4092